

Include.org: Professional Advisor Network (PAN)

Include is a Surrey-based charity working towards a world where people with communication needs are truly included.

80% of our Board of Trustees are people with lived experience of understanding and speaking difficulties. This means they have unrivalled insights into Include's work, but they don't have a lot of the professional experience of traditional Trustees.

Include.org is at a point of exciting growth and opportunity and the Trustees have agreed that we need a Professional Advisor Network (PAN for short!) to help them understand and explore the complex decisions involved in running a Charity.

So if you have professional expertise which could help our Trustees make wise and informed decisions, please do consider becoming an 'Includer' and joining our professional network.

Time Commitment

- 3 x 2 hour online meetings per year (March, June, September)
- Potential to attend 1 Board Meeting per year (in-person or online, dependent on topic of discussion)
- 1 x optional in-person social (December)

If there is a project that particularly aligns with the Advisors area of expertise / interest, the Professional Advisors will be asked to liaise with relevant staff members, volunteers and Trustees as their availability allows.

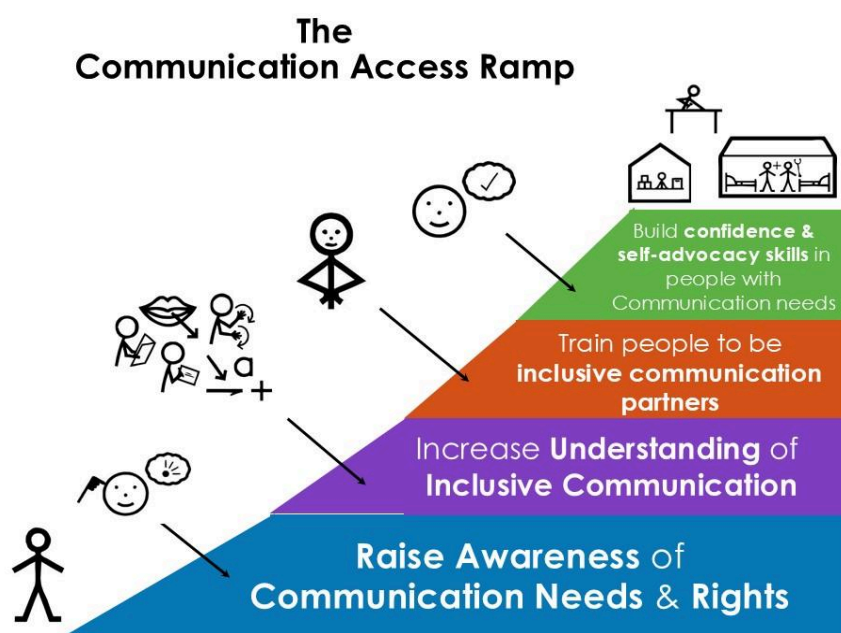

We are particularly keen to hear from people with expertise in Fundraising, Business Development, Health, Social Care, Training, Finance Communications, Events and Risk Management.

Why does Include's work matter?

Around 1 in 5 people in the UK will be affected by a significant communication difficulty at some stage in their life (through an acquired condition like stroke or dementia, or a developmental condition like learning disabilities or autism).

People with Communication Difficulties are at greatly increased risk of isolation, mental health difficulties and health and social inequalities, because of a lack of awareness, understanding and confident communication partners.

In the same way that people with physical disabilities need a ramp to access their community, people with communication needs require support to access what we take for granted. The ramp isn't made of bricks and mortar - it's made of people!

Next steps

To express your interest, or for more information about becoming a Professional Adviser, please contact Alix.Lewer@inlude.org or phone 07446 897835. We ask for a brief summary of relevant professional experience (this can be via CV or Linked-In Profile, if preferred).

Thank you for being an Includer - and helping us build a better world for people with communication needs.
