

What did we talk about last week?

Last week, we talked about movements. We said that a movement is when a large group of people work together to change something that is not right.

As an example, we talked about the women's rights movement. We said that in the past women could not vote.

After the First World War, women in the UK worked together to get the right to vote. This was a movement to help women get the right to vote.

In the session, we also talked about passive communication.

We said that passive communication happens when people do not speak up about the things they need or want.

We said that it is very important to speak in a nice way about the things we need and want.

This week, we will have a fun Easter and spring session!

See you this evening!
