

What did we talk about last week?

Last week, we talked about neurodiversity. We said neurodiversity means having a different brain.

People with neurodivergent brains can be people with ADHD, dyslexia, autism or other “brain” differences.

We also said that the Champions group was nominated for the Learning Disability and Autism Awards. The Champions are now finalists for this award.

In the last session, we made some videos to send the Learning Disability and Autism Awards. This will help us have more chance to win!

In the last session we also talked about how Talking Mats help people with communication needs.

We said Include will use some parts of the session recording for the Talking Mats blog during Learning Disability week!

Tonight, we will continue to talk more about disability!

See you all later!
